Cortona is a lovely little town in southern Tuscany, found in the Valdichiana or Chiana Valley within the Arezzo province. This town is surrounded by old stone walls that date back to the Etruscan and Roman times. It sits atop a hill around 600 meters (about 1,968 feet) above sea level, offering an incredible view of the valley and even Lake Trasimeno. If you visit, make sure to check out the Archaeological Park of Sodo at the hill's base.

When in Tuscany, you can't skip tasting the famous Italian wines. Take a day trip to explore the many vineyards that offer wine tastings, tours, and dining. Some noteworthy wineries to consider are Azienda Agricola Baldetti Alfonso, Winery Fattoria Cantagallo, and Villa Loggio Winery.
